CNRED representatives participated in the training session "The credential evaluator's toolkit: detecting fraud ", organized by the European Association for International Education

The European Association for International Education (EAIE) organized from 8th to 12th of April at the University of Bordeaux, France, a series of training sessions for staff from educational institutions, as well as for public or private authorities.

The representatives of CNRED participated in "The credential evaluator's toolkit: detecting fraud" training course, which took place from 8th to 10th of April, along with representatives from other homologous centers, universities and private institutions with competences in the recognition of study documents.

During the course, there were presented ways to verify the authenticity of study documents, identification of false documents, measures to prevent their use, and good practices used in the procedures for recognition of diplomas.
